

Robert Neborsky

The Brink of Mass Destruction: Can Psychotherapy Help Prevent Our Collective Self-Annihilation? Lessons from the Work of Freud, Jung and Davanloo about this Aspect of the Human Psyche

The great psychoanalysts of the world have seen much of the unconscious as a battle between Eros and Thanatos. Dr Neborsky will address these mega themes from the writings of Freud and Jung. He will specifically focus on the pathological aspects of the superego and its influence on the individual and society. In his paper he will present the case of the Brilliant Physician who plotted his own downfall and then link these findings to the destructive political forces we see in the world today.